National Veterans Foundation serves all United States veterans and their families through an always available toll-free helpline to provide soldiers crisis management, information, and referral needs of those who have served our great nation. NVF also provides public awareness programs to highlight the needs of American veterans and various outreach services to veterans in need of food, clothing, transportation, and employment. The NVF is open to all who seek emotional support and other assistance.

The NVF's extraordinary record of service has not gone unnoticed. As one of the world's most sought after experts in treating Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, the U.S. Government asked the founder of the National Veterans Foundation, Floyd 'Shad' Meshad to provide training to the counselors at Ground Zero after the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001.

These generous donors care about the veterans that have served this great nation and are excellent targets for public service and veteran organizations as well as health and research related non-profits.
